

BIZARIUM

Bizarium museum is a cabinet of curiosities full of bizarre inventions. A 'wonder room' of brilliant inventors and their boundless imagination, technical ingenuity and especially immeasurable passion. Bizarium provides an insight into man's ingenuity and technical brilliance and his quest to improve life on earth. The museum conveys the message that failure and experimentation are at the root of innovation and progress.

Bizarium inspires and amazes with ingenious, scientific and crazy inventions. Think of a flying bicycle, a walking submarine, a hair growth helmet, a swimming umbrella, as well as designs by geniuses such as Leonardo da Vinci, Athanasius Kircher and Nikola Tesla.

Bizarium is located in picturesque Sluis in Zeeland (NL), a stone's throw from the Belgian border.

OUR STORY

The Bizarium is a private collection of the designer duo Marc De Jonghe and Ann Geerinck. The inspirers, devisers and makers of this surprising cabinet of curiosities. With their years of experience in design and a passion for creativity, Marc & Ann have built a museum from nothing. A museum of bizarre inventions, in the old tradition of a Wunderkammer. Their aim was to create a universal reflection on human creativity, resourcefulness, passion and the search for ideas to improve the world.
